Interview

We only have to look back at how first female prime minister was treated in Parliament. And when I think about these marches it does remind me of what happened in the US with the marches by primarily women in response to the US President Donald Trump and the massive turnouts that they had their does that inspire you in a way at least to know that you know, someone like the US President was not you know up for a second term. It means that the sort of people power that you're after look. Yes. Absolutely. I mean, we really want to get people out there and you know, it's not just about women. It's about them to you know, this is a culture. That is you know, it's a culture that we don't want in Australia and you have ladies and our main parliamentary body doesn't have a code of conduct isn't treating everybody with respect in the workplace. How can the rest of Australia have any sort of role model, you know decent role models for this. So if we love everybody to come along everybody's you feel that we should have safe working places that we should have cultures of respect right throughout our community and we want to start at the top. We want to start at our Parliament and our leaders. Hmm and we're black wear black. Yes. That's that's the ask. It's a covid safe event. So we will ask people to bring along their masks their sanitizer and we'll be making sure that if we And like people have 1.5 maybe distant. So we've spoken to the police about it. We have all our approvals from the from the council. So everybody's behind it, which is great these coming Monday the 15th of March 12 noon at King George Gardens in wangaratta good to speak with you Amanda. Thank you. Thank you Sandy. You did very well if you've still got that Echo going on we have appreciate your time very much Amanda Kelly CEO at Women's Health goal. Auburn Northeast and that March as I mentioned coming up on Monday on ABC goulburn-murray just about time to head to The Newsroom before we do let sneak in a message from Jeff and Mansfield. We're talking about the slang words that were cool when you were
