Interview

It's 828 and women in particular being encouraged to March for justice in wanganatta. Now, it's taking place next week. It's on Monday. It's been instigated by Women's Health goulburn Northeast who say that they are fed up with the status quo that silences and ignores women's voices and that exploits and controls women's bodies that did. Use women's experiences. That's find out more Amanda Kelly CEO at Women's Health goulburn Northeast. Hi Amanda. Hi Sandra, how you doing? Not too bad. And I guess over the last, you know couple of days we've been talking about, you know, what's happening in terms of the monarchy and all of that but there were some very important television viewing I guess on the 7:30 report and on four corners particularly in regard to Canberra and really starting that conversation about the way that women. Minar spoken about and spoken with and the experiences that they have why has this much come about thanking a much was actually conceived as a march on Canberra and the original idea was of it was a woman who just said look we need to be heard and we need to make sure that politicians here. So let march on Canberra on the 15th. It's a sitting day and let's aim for Some women and allies to be at Canberra and to let them hear that we're not happy with the way that the behaviour and the responses to allegations have been handled. Sorry centre There's just a little bit of feedback and I'm having trouble. Oh, sorry. Sorry, you sound absolutely fine on our end. But if you're getting an echo back, I know how annoying that can be. Yes. Thank you. You that's so I don't keep going, but I just want to let you know why keep pausing. So in terms of yeah, so in terms of this March you mentioned that you wanted to march on camera, but it will be happening in wanganatta. That's right. So there are actually a like marches around Australia. So for people who can't make it to Canberra so we know that the people in our region are also frustrated, by the way, these what's been happening in Canberra in particular in politics in general and So we can we give an opportunity for people who can't make it to Canberra to come to wanganatta. So we're welcoming people from all over the region to come on Monday at 12 o'clock and to meet us at the King George Gardens and we will walk two rivers Dale's for a Riverside Square from 12:00 to 1:30 and will be just making some noise and making our voices heard and living essentially joining in with their Canberra. Allies and saying enough is enough. Hmm. And in fact that is one of the hashtags as well enough is enough as well as the hashtag fed up. So I mean this really does mean it tells you just exactly the sentiment behind this. Well look exactly I mean, you know, we really just want so for example, our local member Palin Haynes has been talking about the integrity and Australian integrity. Choose rise to build to talk about this this feeds into this. This is not a new conversation the allegations of a reason and have made have made the public sphere right now. But you know as we know from four corners and from from other stories and because we've heard these things these allegations like this could have been made publicly at other times, you know. The culture in Parliament doesn't allow women and to be open about their experiences things. We need that we need a safe workplace for absolutely everybody.
